MRS. LINCOLN'S ORANGE SALAD DRESSING.

Mrs. Lincoln's formula for a dressing for orange salad is as follows; Beat the yolks of four eggs until very thick and light colored; then beat into them gradually one cupfull of sifted powdered sugar and half a level teaspoonful of salt, and beat until the sugar is dissolved. Add the juice of two lemons and beat again. Peel and slice thin six bananas. Peel four oranges, cutting close to the pulp, pick out the seeds, and slice them across in thin slices. Put into a deep glass dish a layer of bananas, then of the dressing, then of the orange, then again a layer of each, with the banana on the top, and pour the remainder of the dressing over it. Set on ice and serve very cold.—Ladies' Home Journal.

DISSATISFIED.

(From the Omaha Nebraska Enterprise)

The latest advice from the Colored Woman's Congress at Atlanta fall heavily upon the hearts of the women who, since last August have prayed for and labored so assiduously for unification of our people.

If reports can be credited the result of the recent Congress will have a tendency towards segregating our women rather than uniting them. The woman of this section had earnestly hoped for an amicable adjustment of matters between the National Federation and the National League at this time, and behold! a third body, separate and distinct, yet composed largely of the same members, has sprung into life full grown and tall. Can it be that our women will not profit by the fruitless experience of the men of our race, who for twenty years have been congressing and organizing and resolving, only to meet the next day to begin the dissolving? What possible good to the people can result from these national organizations, all having the same object in view, all composed of the same material and working along the same lines? The spirit, in itself, is dangerous to the interest of the race, and no good can be obtain other than that of personal aggrandizement. Certainly our leaders will make another effort towards unification.

POLITICS AT FEVER HEAT.

BAILEY AND GLEASON'S BIG MEETINGS. ROBERT H. KEY GAINING STRENGTH. CARSON AND PARKER ON THE LOSING GROUND.

Politics in the District are at fever heat.

The outlook now is that Carson and Parker will meet their waterloo.

The largest and most orderly meeting ever held was in Stewarts hall, 8th District on last Monday night. It was a Gleason and Bailey meeting.

Hundreds had to be turned away.

Long before the time for the meeting to convene the politicians were enthusiastic in expressing their sentiments for their favorites.

Mr. Geo. H. Boston was the first speaker to sing the praises for Bailey and Gleason. He denounced Carson as the representative of ignorance and not the proper man to represent the District republicans.

Editor Chase was next introduced and launched a boom for Gleason.

Mr. W. R. Laws made an eloquent and logical speech for Bailey and Gleason.

Mr. Laws' speech was full of fire and vim. The meeting was gotten up by Uncle Bob. Brown, one of the wheelhorses of the 8th District.

Mr. James McNeal was elected President, R. B. Brown Vice-President and Wiley H. Jorden as Secretary.

A meeting of republicans was held in the 6th District and indorsed Carson and Saunders.

THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

THAT MOCK CONGRESS. WHO IS RESPONSIBLE?—MORALITY TAKES A BACK SEAT.

It is the general opinion of the people of this city that morality has taken a back seat in the Colored Young Men's Christian Association of this city.

The idea of taking that institution to advance the interest of a man who has been convicted by popular sentiment is more than what the people will tolerate.

The men who compose the Congress or a majority of that number are not members of the association.

Men who claim to be at the head of the institution are responsible for what they have imposed upon the people of this community.

What is the Y. M. C. A. coming to? Does it respect the feelings of the people of this city?

Does it have any respect for the young girls who have been outraged and ladies who have been insulted?

To enable those who were anxious to advance their own interest, men who were appointed to States that have the largest votes, were not members of the association but personal friends and satellites of the men who have outraged the community. Below will be seen the form of the letter that was sent out:

MOCK CONGRESS.

REPRESENTATIVE'S CERTIFICATE.

Mr._____, the Y. M. C. A., reposing trust and confidence in your integrity, ability and faithfulness to every duty assigned, hereby selects and designates you to represent the State of _____ in the Mock Congress to be held in the Y. M. C. A. Building, near the corner of Eleventh and Q streets, n. w., Washington, D. C.

Your term of office will expire the first Monday in December, 1898, at 12 m.

The Y. M. C. A. reserves the right to convene Congress and to demand your attendance to discuss and pass on public questions at such time and place as may be deemed necessary, not in conflict with the rules to be made by the first session of this Congress. You will be allowed to cast in votes, the number cast by your State in the U. S. House of Representatives.

You will convene to organize the Congress, Monday, 8 o'clock, p. m., Jan. 13, '96.

J. H. Meriwether,
President,
E. S. Payne, Y. M. C. A.
Secretary.

Who is responsible for the condition of the affairs at the Y. M. C. A.?

Are the young men who compose the association to be held responsible for the acts of a few men who desire to advance their own interest?

It will be a Mock Congress, in deed and in fact.

Several men connected with the association state that they never authorized the issuing of such a circular.

These members feel greatly chagrined over the actions of the few autocrats in the association.

Another member said he had paid his money regularly, but he would decline to pay any more.

Several ladies have signified their intention to withdraw their support from the association.

BAILEY AND GLEASON IN THE LEAD.

BIG MEETINGS THIS WEEK AT MOUNT CARMEL CHURCH AND CADETS ARMORY.

Two of the largest meetings ever held in this city were at Mount Carmel Church corner 4th and L streets, n. w., comprising 14, 15, and 16th Districts.

Over 1,000 republicans were present, Andrew Gleason and L. C. Bailey were indorsed.

P. H. Carson was ignored and not allowed to speak. The appearance of Gleason and Bailey was the occasion of wild applause.

Mr. Gleason made a speech full of vim and enthusiasm.

The republicans of the 8, 9, and 13th Districts met at the Cadets Armory Thursday night.

Mr. W. H. Collins was elected temporary chairman, and Wiley H. Jordon and M. White, secretaries.

The 8th District, under the leadership of Mr. Keith Sutherland and James Wood brought 300 men, the 9,100 under the leadership of Messrs. Hall, Gray, and Chase, and 13,200 under the leadership of W. H. Gollins, Hatton and Boston.

A permanent organization was effected by the election of W. Calvin Chase, President.

Hon. Joseph Edward Hayden, First Vice-President, George H. Boston, Second Vice-President, and George Watson, Third Vice-President.

Mr. Hayden, who spoke and said many good things about Mr. Gleason and gave some good reasons why he should be elected.

Mr. Richard Laws made a strong plea for Bailey and Gleason.

Mr. Marcellus West got the floor and notified the meeting that Carson's funeral dirge was sung at Mount Carmel Church.

Senator T. T. Allain, of Chicago, made a strong appeal for the election of a Reed delegation from the republicans of the District of Columbia. He said that he was proud of the advancement and high standing of all the people of the District, and closed his remarks by paying a high compliment to the memories of the life of Fred. Douglass, and said that if the old leader could say one word, it would be for the nomination and election of Thomas B. Reed, for President. In speaking of the high standing of the citizens of the District, Senator Allain, said: Illiterates 10 years of age and over classified: abstract of the Eleventh Census of 1890.

District of Columbia; total, white population 127,526, (illiterates 3,495), which is 2 and 7 tenths per cent., and which is less illiterate per cent. than can be found in the States or Territories of the Union among white people.

Colored population in District of Columbia, 10 years and over. 61,041 number of (illiterates 21,389), which is 35 per ceat. Among the States North of the Ohio River, 21 of the States have less per cent. of illiterates, than you have, except one. Wisconsin, which has 1 and 7 tenths more illiterates than you have. But you stand, head and shoulders above 23 States, where slavery existed, and over 45 per cent. better than New Mexico; 4 per cent. less than Oaklahoma; 50 per cent. less than Arizona, and among the old slaves States, Missouri comes next to you, with 41 per cent., and which is 6 per cent. mora illiterate than you show, Resolutions were adopted indorsing Gleason and Bailey.

HON. ROBERT MOORMAN.

There appears before the House Committee on Privileges and Elections at this session of Congress, from the Third South Carolina Congressional District, a republican, who is contesting Mr. Latimer's right to the seat now held by him, and who has a history full of interest as showing the pluck, courage, and sacrifice that Southern white republicans must possess, especially in that section of South Carolina, known as the "Piedmont" Region.

There is to day no part of the South where prejudice, ostracism, and openhanded injustice, are more prevalent and where the spirit of intimidation and brow-beating are more honored.

So absolute and complete had become the democratic spirit of depression and obstruction that the republican party was apparently dead, and men who held republican principles, sacred and dear, and who believed in the republican doctrine of liberty, equality and exact justice to all, not only hesitate to proclaim their convictions and take their places under the republican standard, but they realized the danger involved in standing up for republican men and measures and they consequently assumed a position of forced submission to the conditions surrounding them.

For years the democratic party in the Third South Carolina Congressional District, exercised, unopposed, and unlimited sway and electors, who believed in republican principles were afraid to express them.

Mr. Moorman had for years watched the trend of affairs and had become absolutely and entirely disgusted with democratic policies, practices and principles; so in 1880 he cast his fortunes with the republican party and voted successively and respectively, for Garfield, Blaine and Harrison and has worked for the success of the G. O. P. from 1880 until the present time.

It costs a man something to be a republican in certain sections of the South and most especially in Northern South Carolina during the election periods. During these times in this section jeers, insults, intimidation and often times assaults are the arguments resorted to by the democratic party to woo and win voters and failing in this method, the stuffing of ballot boxes and fraudulent returns and as a last resort the use of the shot gun are called into their service to carry out their nefarious and diabolical schemes and purposes.

In this district at the time when Mr. Moorman began to take an active interest in the affairs of the District lethargy, indifference and apparent death had seized the party and the party leaders, but when Mr, Moorman assumed the party leadership, new life, renewed vigor and a spirit of aggression and pugnacity was manifested and once more in the spirit of the olden days the republican party arose Phoenix like from its own ashes to do battle for victory, justice and liberty.

The resuscitation of the republican party in this part of the State is due largely, if not entirely to the work, influence and potentiality of Mr. Moorman, who has been honestly, fairly and squarely elected to Congress from the Third South Carolina Congressional District and defrauded of the same by the mandacious and dishonest practices and certifications of the members and leaders of the democratic party of that state.

Mr. Robert Moorman, the republican candidate and contestant for a seat in Congress from the Third South Carolina Congressional District, was born in Newberry County in 1858, and came from one of proudest and best families in South Carolina. His father, Robert Moorman was four years a member of the House of Representatives, and eight years a member of the State Senate. He was a leader in ante-bellum days in society, church and state of the democratic party and was one of the first men in his State to sign the ordinance of secession. Thus it can be plainly seen that Mr. Robert Moorman, the son was early surrounded by those influences and tendencies which have called forth the highest and strongest courage for him to shake off and leave behind him.

His relatives to-day are among the ablest and most powerful of the democratic leaders of the Palmetto State, for the Hon. Sampson Pope, late candidate for Governor of South Carolina, Y. J. Pope a member of the supreme court are his first cousins, and Thomas S. Moorman, late clerk of the supreme court and one of the most brilliant lswyers of the State Bar, is his brother.

Mr. Moorman's father died when he was quite young leaving no property with which the son could educate himself and yet by his own efforts he managed to secure a good and thorough common school education.

Not being influenced, warped or biased by the environment of slavrey and secession and not subscribing to the tenets, policies and practice of the democratic party. Mr. Moorman accordingly went into the republican party actively in 1880 and has voted respectiyely for Garfield, Blaine and Harrison and has worked for republican success and aided financially the republican cause ever since.

The republican party of the South, and especially South Carolina had been dead apparently since 1876, its corpse being yearly and securely guarded by democratic bull-dozers, ballot-box stuffers and the shot gun fraternity. Colored republicans were afraid to make a determined and vigorous campaign for a Congressman from this district, (Third), and democratic supremacy and sway were in the saddle in defiance of popular wish and popular choice and said in effect, if not in words: Republicans had no rights which they were bound to protect, respect, or subserve. And this too, in a district with several thousand clear republican majority.

Mr. Moorman saw this state of affairs and said to some friends that it was an outrage and a travesty of manhood, justice and Republican principle and that he intended to snatch, as it ought to have been done long ago, this district from the unlawful grasp of the democracy. He accordingly announced his candidacy from this district for a seat in the National Congress and when the Third Congressional Convention met he appeared before it and secured the nomination over three able and older competitors.

Having secured the nomination Mr. Moorman made the canvass almost alone, being aided only by D. H. Maffett who made several speeches in his behalf in Abbeville County, and it was during this noted campaign that Mr. Moorman met and defied Democratic jeers, insults and indignities. In Anderson County the friends of Mr. Latimer attempted to drive him from the town, which town is only about ten miles from Mr. Latimer's home.

At the town of Seneca a crowd of Democratic roughs tried to intimidate him and drive him from his hotel and the town but they failed, Time and again at different places in his district he was forced to stop at the house of some loyal and devoted colored Republican follower for safety or because he was refused at the hotel and inns.

Not satified with these nefarious and diabolical practices they called to their aid the great and tremondous force of the Registration and election laws of the State—twins of crime and siu.

Time and again colored Republicans went to the registration officers and applied for registration certificates so as to qualify themselves for their suffrage rights. But the registration officers resorted to every conceivable scheme and subterfuge to prevent these loyal and patient people from thus preparing for the suffrage laws of the State.

Hundreds of colored men have walked for miles through rain and storm and mud to secure their certificates only to be denied and almost every instance these men have declared that they would have voted for the Hon. Robert Moorman if they had been given the certificates to which they were entitled by law.

Mr. Moorman denounced these outrageous practices of the Democratic party in burning words at every crossroad and from every hamlet in the district. Of course, the Democratic party ostracised and proscribed him and his family, thus trying to force him to surrender his allegiance to the Republican party but they failed most signally in their efforts to make him abandon his political faith.

Mr. Moorman is a man of most undoubted courage and most unflinching devotion to any cause which he espouses. More than once during the campaign he gave exhibition of that rare pluck and bravery characteristics of his family and for which he is so dearly beloved by his large and enthusiastic constituency.

Because his wife knew his determination and his disposition to take a stand on all public questions and abide it regardless of consequences, she was kept in a state of constant fear and anxiety, for it was well-known that Democratic bull-dozing, brow-beating, intimidation, ostracism, proscription, and shot guns were the weapons and arguments that he would meet, and he met them like the true Republican and brave man that he is.

In two places in the county of Newberry riffle clubs were organized and were used to intimidate the colored republicans and to drive them from the polls.

Thus have I feebly, but truthfully portrayed the state of affairs in this district. When Mr. Moorman was the nominee of the republican party for Congressional honors, and although he had to carry his life in his hands yet he made the fight and won.

He was appointed postmaster at Newberry by President Harrison, and during his encumbency the office reached a high state of efficiency and he made for himself the record of being the best postmaster the town ever had. He was appointed postmaster at a time when there were about thirty other applicants, but Mr. Wanamaker, then Postmaster-General met him, became impressed with his manliness and his sterling republicanism and wisely appointed him to the office.

Mr. Moorman has been honestly and fairly elected to Congress from his District, and I am sure the sense of justice and fair play that are leading traits of the Republican party will secure for him the seat that is to-day occupied by an unlawful occupant.

The Republican Congressional Executive Committee of the Nation, did not aid financially, or otherwise Mr. Moorman, in his canvass and the Republican Congress, therefore, owes it to truth, to justice and to her loyal and faithful supporters in South Carolina and the entire South to seat Mr. Moorman and the other legally elected contestants from that locality and thus prove to the country and to the world that the ballot of the black man is a sacred inheritance and must be protected and guarded zealously and safely wherever the stars and stripes float and that every ballot, in every part of our vast Republic shall be counted for the person for whom it was cast.

The Republicans of the Nation have left the Southern wing of their party to themselves and to their enemies too long. And yet single handed and alone we have recovered Maryland, Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina and made West Virginia and Missouri splendid debating ground for the Presidential election.

We ask in return that our republican friends in other parts of the country will only have the manhood, consistency and wisdom, to see that justice is done unto us and so will they, "Render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

Mr. Moorman's case was managed in the State during the time the evidence was being taken by Lambert W. Jones, Esq., and Judge M. A. Carlise, of Newberry.

Judge Carlise is an able and a fearless man and a democrat of absolute fairness and honesty.

Strong influence were brought to bear to keep him from appearing in the Moorman case, but he was opposed to the rascality of the Democratic party, and he appeared in Mr. Moorman's interest.

His speech before the House Committee on Privileges and Elections, Saturday was a most thorough exposition and demonstration of democratic methods under the Registration and Election laws of the State.

At this end of the line, Col. W. W. Dudley, ex-Pension Commissioner and Genl. Michener, ex-Attorney-General, of Indiana, are conducting the case.

Mr. Moorman will be seated.

BUSY VESUVIUS.

Showers of Lava Are Increasing the Mountain's Height.

Year after year and century after century Vesuvius puffs away. Last July it suffered a new eruption in the side of its great cone. It did no damage save to the roadway by which the traveler ascends to the steep cog railway that carries him from the middle of the mountain to the apex of the smoking, spluttering cone itself. The first recorded eruption of Vesuvius was in 79 A. D., when Pompeii and Herculaneum were overwhelmed. Between the first and sixth centuries nine eruptions are recorded, and since that epoch there have been forty-eight great ones.

The last destructive eruption was on April 26, 1872, when about fifty sightseers were killed and more than 40,000 people fled from Naples. Of the present condition of the ominous monster the Paris Herald says: Vesuvius is 150 feet higher than it was nine months ago. The constant showers of porous lava have filled in one side of the old hollow crater, and have built up the new cone, which, from its bold outlines, has greatly changed the appearance of the summit, and is still changing it slightly every day. Formerly the volcano, as seen from Naples, had a rounded top, but now it comes to a wedge point.

A year ago visitors looked into the hollow of the old and somewhat cooled-off crater. Of late they have gone inside the boundaries of the old crater to get a good look at the new cone, from the summit of which, at intervals of a few minutes, there is a gust of steam, laden with red-hot ashes, which are sent into the air 200 feet or more. Before the steam has drifted away there is another rumble, a sound of watery explosion, and another shower of ashes. Thus, from a distance in the daytime, there seems to be a constant curl of white vapor from the summit, but at night each separate eruption throws up a vivid light, which then fades away in a dull glow.

The natives who live on the slope of the mountain say that after the new cone has been built somewhat higher it will fall in of its own weight and close the present breathing hole. Then the mountain will be like a worked-up bottle. A new vent will have to be made, and in the making of this vent there will be a fierce eruption, an overflow of lava and the formation of a new crater.

There was, indeed, a general belief that the renewed and growing activity of the volcano would lead to some sort of eruption, but it was hoped that it would be nothing more serious than a flow of lava down over the old and hardened beds. The last outbreak and the flow towards Resina (in the direction of the buried city of Herculaneum) was, therefore, not unexpected.

The large cone is simply a heap of cinders dignified by size. The ride to the foot of the cone consumes five hours, but it requires only ten minutes to reach the top of the funicular railway. Then there is a walk of ten minutes up the jagged edges of the huge crater to the bowl, and in this is the little cone thrown up by the recent eruptions.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Habitual Drunkard.

The Austrian Government has prepared a bill for the treatment of habitual drunkards. The measure proposes to empower the authorities to open retreats for inebriates, and distinguishes between the voluntary and the compulsory detention of drunkards in these establishments. Those who enter voluntarily will be able to leave at will, but are to be treated exactly like the compulsory inmates. The latter class may be sent to the retreat of the respective districts, either by the order of a magistrate or on the petition of the parents or children, or of the husband or wife or trustee, or of the chief of a lunatic asylum in which the drunkard may be detained.

Inebriates may further be assigned to retreats by the action of the public prosecutor, or by the mayor or burgomaster of the town or village in which the habitual drunkard resides, whether he belong to that place, district, town or province or not. In all four classes of cases the detention of the inebriate must be preceded by an ordinary judicial action before a court of first instance, which is bound to hear witnesses, including the drunkard himself, as well as the doctors, more especially experts on mental diseases.

The term of detention will be generally for two years, but the "patient," as the inebriate is constantly called in the bill, may be released on leave after one year, but will be confined again in case the trust reposed in him should prove to have been ill-placed. After the two years term he must be released, but if he should afterward come under the provisions of the measure he may be sentenced again and again for fresh terms of two years, and eventually given over to a lunatic asylum or to a hospital, as the case may require.—New York Press.

Less than the others' Old!

Our Mr. Harry Parker has just returned from New York, where he secured an immense purchase of Men's New Stylish Suits, which go on sale to-day at lower prices than the other Clothiers are asking for their shelf-worn, antiquated garments.

You remember what an immense success we had with our $6.25 sale this time last year. We shall eclipse it this month. Don't think of buying out-of-date shop-worn clothing so long as you can get the "cream" of the season's styles for less money.

Our immense lot of Men's Single and Double-Breasted Sack Suits in black and navy blue cheviots and fancy mixtures.

Also Fine Black Diagonal Cut-a-way Coats and Vests, all which are made to sell for $10, $12 and $15.

Choice, $6.25.

Big lot of Men's Heavy Winter Overcoats, navy blue and black. Made to sell for $10, $12 and $15.

Choice, $7.50.

Men's Extra-fine Heavy Melton and Kersey Cloth Overcoats, velvet collar, the finest introduded this season, but slightly broken in sizes. Made up to sell for $17.50, $20, $25 and $30.

Choice, $12.

Odd Trousers for $2.25.

Immmense assortment of Men's Odd Trousers, quite a number of neat stripes, but the majority of them are odd pairs left from the past season's Suits which sold from $10 to $20.

Choice, $2.25.

Needless to ask that you investigate and make a comparison before buying outside of our establishment. No matter what others may lead you to expect from the newspapers, we warn you to be careful. We obligate ourselves to sell you better Clothing for less money than you will pay at any sale in Washington.

SUFFRAGE IN THE DISTRICT.

It is evident that a majority of the people in this city are in favor of the restoration of the elective franchise and are willing to do all in their power to accomplish it.

The dangers, however, which confront us are the method that are being resorted to in order to elect an ignorant representative to represent the republicans in the next National Convention.

The presumption will be, if the voters of this city prefer to have ignorance to represent them instead of intelligence, the rights and liberties of the people will be in danger.

What guarantee would they have for the protection of their property interest?

These are the dangers which confront the people. The world will look at it as a mockery for civilization and intelligence, that the Capital of this great Republic sends an ignorant man to represent the people in a great convention in which the brain of the world will participate.

If this is the reason that the people in the District of Columbia are in favor of the elective franchise, it is lucky that the fair name of the Capital of the Nation is no longer disgraced. These are questions for the republican party in this city to consider.

The restoration of suffaage depends on the class of men that shall represent us in the next convention.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

There are lots of cranks in both parties who are of the opinion that men who sell whiskey should be suppressed.

We are of the opinion that there are more whiskey cranks in the republican party than in any other organization. Why the party makes so many blunders we are unable to state.

Whiskey men must live as well as men who are more dangerons to the country than the whiskey men.

We understand that the Republican Legislature of Maryland intend to increase license on whiskey.

The republican party was a long time getting in, and we find that if the whiskey traffic is to be bothered with, there will be more trouble in the camp.

THE DISTRICT FARCE.

On next Tuesday between the hours of 3 and 6 o'clock p., m. the republicans of this city will go through a farce of election, which the National Republican Committee imposed upon the ballot reform republicans of this city.

If there ever was a farce perpetrated it was when the National Republican Committee passed a donkey law, which has neither head, feet nor body. It is a void of sense and reason, and if you were to pull a string of jumping jacks you would get as much sense from them as the republicans will get from the recent action of the National Committee.

It is a farce pure and simple.

It is said that the election will take place from 3 till 6 o'clock p. m. If the clerks prove to be as ignorant as some of the candidates there will be but a few votes cast.

MORE TIME.

Since it is decided to allow the candidates to decide their own election, they certainly ought to allow the voters all the time that is necessary to go through with the farce. It makes no difference which side wins there is bound to be fraud perpetrated, and quite natural the National Committee will be compelled to settle the farce that the people were asked to settle.

THE FIGHT.

Indications show that the contest for delegate from this city to the next convention is the hottest and most interesting affair that has taken place in this city since the rights of suffrage was taken from the people.

Things are warm and the politicians seem to be excited to fever heat.

Some men have an idea that they will be elected on their popularity.

That is an article that but a few men fool with.

Popularity is all well enough when you have money to back it.

But as a rule the Washington politicians are and have been of the opinion that the most popular thing with them is to bleed every candidate, and the last man who buys last will come very near pulling and knocking the apples.

NOTICE.

Advertisers and subscribers are notified that no one is authorized to solicit advertisements and subscriptions for this paper who has not a card of 1896 countersigned by W. Calvin Chase.

MR. SYPHER'S SPEECH.

Mr. J. Halle Sypher who is making republican speeches in the interest of a good republican, must remember that he is not in Louisana chastizing negroes.

The Washington politicians have more sense to the square inch than any other class of politicians in this country.

This city is the school of politics and when you think that you have a cinch on Washington politicians you are mistaken.

The ordinary one can make the hair of the most polished and astute politician from any State turn gray.

LET IT BE DONE.

It is hoped that the Committee on Privileges and Elections will report immediately on the case of Hon. Robert Moorman, of South Carolina, one of the most outraged republicans in the South.

Mr. Moorman was a republican when it tried men's souls, and if he was not elected the republican party doesn't exist.

Elsewhere in this paper will be seen the methods that were resorted to to defraud him of his votes.

A GREAT CLOTHING HOUSE.

One of the greatest Clothing houses in this city is Parker; Bridget & Co., at 315 7th st., n. w.

This firm is one of the largest and most reliable in this city.

This is where you can find the genial Mr. P. A Dickson who is known by the entire community.

Mr. Dickson is a salesman and it took no force or influence to put him there.

This firm knew of Mr. Dickson's worth; his gentlemanly bearin and ability as a salesman, which were rec mmendations enough to place him where he is to-day.

This is the only clothing house in the city that has a colored salesman, and it is to be hoped that the patrons of The BEE will see that this act of recognition on the part of this firm is appreciated.

The candidates will now put their hands in their pockets.

It is hoped that there will be protection at the pools.

The National Committee will be held responsible for what may occur at the pools on election day.

There should have been some preventative against repeaters.

Do you think that Mr. Gleason will be defeated?

The hardest fight that the flim flam leaders will have will be to defeat Bailey and Key.

It will be seen who has the most strength, Bailey, Key, Gleason or Saunders.

Lookout for the great souvenir edition of The BEE next week.

The many demonstrations that are being indulged in at the many republican meetings, are evidences of what will occur at the pools.

OUR TERRITORY.

HOW IT IS DIVIDED INTO ELECTION DISTRICTS.

There is a great deal of interested manifested in the coming election of delegates to the next Republican Central Committee and District convention in this city, and a great deal has been said as to the boundary lines of the several districts.

The BEE that is always up to date in news and all matter of interest has published below the boundary lines of the twenty-two districts in the District of Columbia, which will enable those who don't know in what district they live to know.

The District of Columbia shall be divided into twenty-two districts, each of which shall elect one delegate to the Legislative Assembly, and which districts shall be as follows:

First District.—All that part of the county of Washington, outside the limits of the cities o Washington and Georgetown, lying east of Lincoln avenue and Bunker Hill road.

Second District.—All that part of the county of Washington, outside the cities of Washington and Georgetown, lying west of Lincoln avenue and Bunker Hill road.

TO FILL BOER PRISONS.

WARRANTS OUT FOR 200 LEADING MEN OF JOHANNESBURG.

Several Americans Among Them—Jameson and His Officers Still Held at Pretoria, But His Men Are Sent to Jail—Massacre in the Transvaal Planned.

London, Jan. 13.—4 A. M.—A Johannesburg despatch reports that warrants are out for the arrest of over 200 persons, all leading men in the mines and principal companies of the Stock Exchange, and of the professional element, but not of the mercantile classes.

Among those arrested are several Americans and Germans, including J. S. Curtis, an American engineer.

There is far too great a disposition in some quarters to assume that the Transvaal difficulty is ended. It can only be truly said that the immediate danger of bloodshed has been averted. But all the evils and terrors which made a disturbance in the Transvaal, with or without Dr. Jameson—merely a question of time—still remain unsettled.

A despatch received from sources in sympathy with the Transvaal Government in Johannesburg asserts that the plot for Dr. Jameson's raid and the uprising of the Uitlanders was the most shameful in history.

The blackest part of the plot, the despatch asserts, was the intention of the agents of the South Africa Company to let loose native savages to invade the Transvaal from all points and to kill every white man.

It had been arranged that all over South Africa provision stations should be erected on the lines of the route, and the points had been fixed. The object was to destroy Pretoria and to present England with a fait accompli before any interference could reach them. Stores of Pretoria and of the Rand made by military men have, it is said, been seized.

This story is denounced here as a gross exaggeration. It is regarded as being intended to prejudice the South Africa Company in negotiations it is making.

It is understood that the difficulty over the manner of disposal of Dr. Jameson's followers was settled Saturday, the Transvaal Government simply stipulating that the rank and file of the expedition should be deported from South Africa. Under the Transvaal law, the punishment for treason is banishment and a large fine.

SERGEANT KILLED BY A PATROLMAN.

The Latter Had Been Off of His Beat for Fifteen Minutes.

Buffalo, Jan. 13.—Sergeant Timothy Cantlin, of the seventh precinct, was shot and killed by Patrolman Michael Sammon at 4 o'clock yesterday morning because he found the latter off his beat and intended to report him therefore.

Sammon had entered a malt house where he remained for more than 15 minutes. Sergeant Cantlin had arrived on Sammon's beat and finding him absent began to search for him. When he saw him emerge from the malt house he suspended him and ordered him to the station house. Sammon pleaded to be excused, but Cantlin said:

"I can't do it. You'll have to go to the station house and see the captain about it."

"Take that, then," said Sammon, who had quietly drawn his revolver, and leveling the weapon at Cantlin he fired a shot into his right side, and bullet lodging in the spine.

Cantlin fell and Sammon walked to the station house, which he entered, saying he wanted to get warm. Lighting his pipe he chatted for some time with the reserve men and then started out again. As he was leaving the station house Patrolman McClure entered and laying his hand on Sammon's shoulder, said:

"You are under arrest for shooting Sergeant Cantlin."

Sammon made no reply and was locked up.

It is supposed that Sammons bore some grudge against Cantlin and that after he had shot him, believing he had killed him instantly, he went direct to the station house to divert suspicion.

ROASTED BY A MOB.

White Man and His Negro Wife Made Themselves Obnoxious.

New Orleans, Jan. 13.—Pat Morris, fifty years old, and Charlotte, his negro wife, several years his senior, lived in a house-boat just opposite the city.

A few years ago a mob tore down their house and threw it into the river. They were then living on the New Orleans side of the river just above the city limits, but in a populous section.

They procured a house-boat and floated to the opposite side of the river, only a few miles below. They were ordered away on penalty of death, but stubbornly refused to leave. Lately they turned a part of their shanty boat into a vile resort for low negro women, and last night a mob of fifty men from all parts of Jefferson Parish assembled. They set the boat afire. As Morris came out to attempt to extinguish the flames he was shot through the left knee, breaking his leg. He was unable to crawl out and was burned to death.

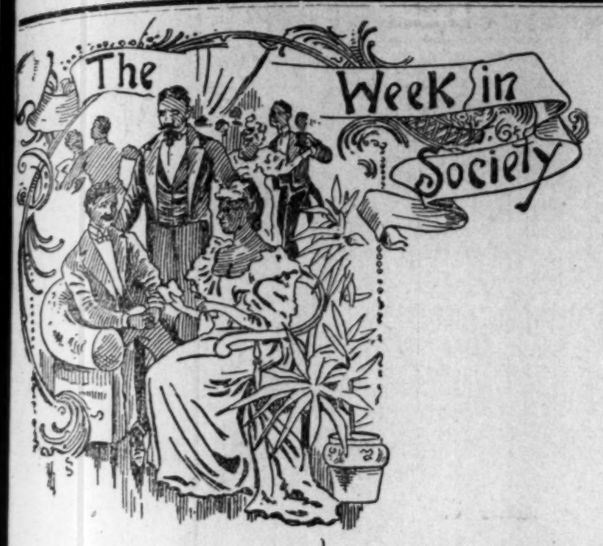
His wife was shot through the head trying to escape. Her body was burned to a crisp.

OUT OF A LIVING TOMB.

James Isherwood Was Buried for Eighteen Hours in a Well 46 Feet Deep.

New York, Jan. 13.—James Isherwood, who was at the bottom of a well forty-six feet deep at Franklin, N. J., on Saturday afternoon, when the sides caved in, filling up the well to within four feet of the top, was dug out yesterday morning alive, after about sixty tons of rock and earth that covered him had been removed. He was conscious and apparently uninjured, but at St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, to which he was taken, it was feared that he is badly hurt internally and may not recover.

Isherwood's escape was miraculous. For eighteen hours he was buried in a little cavern that chance had made for him. An avalanche of rocks weighing more than a hundred pounds each first showered upon the luckless man. When they were within a few inches of crushing him they stopped, wedged tightly against the sides of the well.



Mr. Harry Simms is now a benedict. The happy event happened last week.

Miss Mabel Guinn and Mr. Clem. Marshall were married last week.

Mrs. Estella A. Gibson, a trained nurse, of Chicago, has had a windfall in the shape of a large fortune, inherited by the death of her uncle, Charles Russell. On hearing of her good fortune, Mrs. Gibson first resolve was to put an elevator in the College of Physicians and Surgeons in that city, so that the nurses would be save the fatigue of climbing the stairs.

The first woman doctor in Vienna, Austria, Georgine Ruth, has been admitted to practice. Some months ago the Doctor of the Imperial School for officers daughters committed suicide, and among the many competitors for the post was Doctor Ruth and she obtained the appointment.

Miss Edith Okey has graduated from the Veterinary College, of Toronto, where she made a special study of diseases of milk cows. She is practicing her profession and has three men assistants.

Miss Sophie Wright has organized a night school for boys from the poorest slums in New Orleans. They bring pens and copy-books, she supplying them with slates and text-books.

A lady who lives near the Jardin de Plantes, or old Parisian Zoo, as a providence to the stray cats of her neighborhood. She feeds daily a hundred at the Berry Wine Market, where they are allowed to live in the cellars. The lady believes in the transmigration of souls and says she feels as if she was formerly incarnate in a woman who hated animals. Her extreme sensibility to their suffering is, she also feels the punishment meted to them. She has also a number of mutilated sick cats that she recued.

Will Start for Turkey With Fifteen Assistants WithinTwo Weeks.

Boston, Jan. 13.—Miss Clara Barton, Secretary of the Red Cross Society, will start for Turkey on her mission of relief to the suffering Armenians within two weeks.

This decision was reached at a conference held in New York Friday, at which Hagob Bogigian, Philip W. Moen, of Worcester; Spencer Trask, of New York; Miss Barton, and the Rev. Judson Smith, D. D., of the American Board, were present. The gentlemen mentioned represent committees engaged in raising the required funds for Miss Barton's work, and, on the latter's consent to sail as soon as she received $50,000, they pledged that amount, feeling sure that it can be raised immediately.

Miss Barton will take fifteen assistants, three or four of whom will be women. She will make Constantinople her headquarters, and, after a survey of the field, will send her agents into the afflicted districts.

MARINER'S TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

Boat From the Steamer Ealing Reaches Canso, N. S.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 13.—A boat from the steamer Ealing, which recently went ashore on Green Island, Isaacs Harbor, N. S., has reached Canso. There were nine men in the boat, which was in charge of Second Officer Thomas, and all were thoroughly exhausted and badly frost bitten.

They had a terrible experience, and nine of their shipmates, including the captain, died of cold and exhaustion and their bodies were thrown overboard. The survivors are in such an exhausted condition that they cannot tell when their mates died, saying it was either to-day or yesterday.

They say two boats left the stranded ship at 6 p. m. of the 6th inst. One contained the first officer and eight men, and as nothing has been heard from them, all hands probably perished.

The other boat, which arrived at Canso, was in charge of the captain, and originally contained 18 men.

The Gould Inheritence Tax.

New York, Jan. 13.—Surrogate Fitzgerald Friday signed an order fixing the amount of inheritance tax to be paid by the heirs of the late Jay Gould as follows: George J. Gould, $90,771.94; Helen M. Gould, $98,437.08; Edwin Gould $92,157.23; Howard Gould, $95,192.95; Frank J. Gould, $98,175.85, and Anna, now the Countess Castellane, $97,122.18.

Filled Him Full of Lead.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 13.—At 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, in the town of Ransomville, ten miles from Lockport, Robert Clapsaddle, an aged farmer, was brutally murdered by his profligate son in-law, George H. Smith, and three hours later a posse of seventy-five of the most prominent farmers of the section meted out swift justice to the assassin riddling his body with a score of bullets.

Blackburn Chosen.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 13.—Senator Blackburn has secured the caucus nomination to be his own successor, but it is likely to be a barren honor. Isaac Wilson, one of the Democratic members of the Legislature, is dying, and even were he in his seat the vote on joint ballot would be a tie. Aside from this there will be some bolters.

MODERN SCHOOL METHODS.

Many Innovations That Have Taken Place in Recent Years.

Among modern innovations in school methods the matter of vertical penmanship is receiving much attention from practical educators. In the elemental schools in Philadelphia this method of penmanship was introduced a year ago, and the results, according to a recent report of the school superintendent, have been satisfactory. The school principals give an unqualified approval of the system. They claim that it is the natural method of writing, children without any instruction adapting an upright style rather than a sloping one. It is, therefore, more readily learned by children, and teachers in the lower grades show better results by the vertical system than by the oblique system. Some of the specimens of penmanship from the first and second grades compare favorably with penmanship in the grammar grades, the superintendent says. Another argument in favor of the vertical system is that it is especially adapted to children who possess little taste for penmanship, thus tending to make much better penmen of the mass of children than does the oblique system. But the strongest arguments in its favor, and the one which will appeal most directly to parents, is that it is hygienic, since children naturally assume a more healthy position at the desk, with shoulders even and spinal column erect, and there is less tendency to twist the body into an unnatural and unhealthy position than in the oblique system. While the Philadelphia school superintendent has not reached a conclusion in respect to the new system of writing, he finds the arguments in favor very cogent, and expects from its introduction a modification at least of the present system in American schools.

Another school innovation, originating in Buffalo, in use in some of the schools in that city, and to be introduced in the schools of Colorado, is a system of color study. Advocacy of it proceeds upon the belief that ignorance of color lies at the foundation of the generally deplored lack of appreciation of art. The women are naturally the active advocates of the introduction of the study into the public schools, as a knowledge of color enters largely into interior house decoration and artistic costuming. They base their request for the addition of the study to the school curriculum, however, on the higher ground that coloristic training is eminently practical and closely relating to art and industry.—New York Post.

Kind Hearts Are More Than Cornets.

How often we regret, on recalling some one that is gone, that we did not show him or her more kindness! As the recollection of unkindness received is bitter, so the remembrance of kindness rendered is sweet. We feel that we did the right thing, at a moment when the wrong thing would have been irreparable, and rejoice at the recollection, or feel an inward satisfaction at the remembrance.

I have just heard of the death of an old German woman who used to go around the town selling flowers in pots, which she carried in a basket on her head, and which she set down when she came to one of her customers, of whom my wife was one. There was something in this woman's face so gentle, kind and unselfish, so honest and motherly, that I instinctively felt great respect for her, and would, had I dared, have taken my hat off to her when I met her in the street. But she was a plain workingwoman, carrying a basket of pot-flowers on her head, and I did not dare! What an idiot I was to allow respect for conventionalities to smother my native feelings, my right instincts! Jefferson used to take his hat off to a negro slave, and why shouldn't I to this most noble gentlewoman, who was, I now imagine, one of God's chosen ones! Well, she is gone, and it is too late now; but I am glad to think that I always greeted her with kindness, and was always repaid with one of her sweetest smiles. What a life of patient labor was hers! And who can tell how much good she may have done by her example of gentle, dutiful, patient submission to her lot! Such women are like suns, radiating sweetness and light on all they meet.—New York Home Journal.

Very stylish gowns and waists for both day and evening wear, are la mode this season.

For an afternoon tea a pretty waist which is admirable can be formed in a tight fitting bodice of corded blue silk laid in front in shallow pleats with elaborate garnitures of jet and black lace. The full bishop sleeves are closed at the wrist with a tight fitting cuff and ruffle of lace.

A striking visiting costume can be fashioned of the new mixed weaves now on the high tide of popularity.

Charming dressing gowns are made of soft silk with wadded linings, and are most delightfully light and warm. The sleeves are cut very wide and full. The skirts are ample wide and drawn in at the waist with a girdle of silk cord.

For general wear, black is more fashionable than any other color. One reason of its favor is that it readily lends itself to combination with the green and magenta shades now in vogue. The effect is most charming, and the result a most stylish gown.

The lounging robe is shapeless, except for a slight going in at the waist line. Cashmeres, French flannels, eider gowns and flannelettes are the materials most in favor for these gowns, which hang loose from the neck and may be belted in or not, as desired

This is essentially a winter of elaborate and ornately trimmed outer wraps and garments.

While fur always holds its own in popularity, the manufactured material velour du nord rivals it this season in dame fashion's favor.

Double-breasted Chinchilla short coats are much favored with red and blue skirts, plain or edged with fur.

With some coat and shirt costumes, the jackets are in reefer shape with beaded lapel and cuffs. With these a short ostrich ruche long enough to cross over, or with chiffon or ribbon streamers is worn. Also very popular are fur necklets in sable, thibet, fox and chinchilla, with from four to a dozen tails and in long and short lengths.

A girlish hat of golden-brown cheville straw trimmed very simple with a full side bow of turquoise blue satin ribbon striped with brown and purple velvet stripes is in good taste for a young miss. A more elaborate hat has the crown composed of grass green silk cord and deep blue cheville trimmed with a full frilling and bows of tiny Pekin blue and green velvet. Lovely metallic wings shading from bronze-green to a blue and purple, are placed Minervia fashion amidst the bows well to the front.

Boots and shoes with patent leather vamps look smarter than anything for visiting, and they do not show a few spots of rain as easily as glace kid shoes, though many people prefer the latter, as they are warmer to the feet in cold weather.

Straight toe caps are still worn and many patent leather models are brogued around the edge and on the toe-cap, but on the whole a shoe with patent leather on it looks more distinguished, if it is left quite plain at the edge.

Extremely pointed toes are not so much in favor as they were, and people in general are begining to realize that anything so unnatural is not beautiful, and the very sharp pointed toe has gone the way of the waspish waist, which is now quite out of date.

Gloves in the new shades looks best with gowns of fawn and drab, and white gloves with gowns and costumes in more definate colors. Gloves in the light colored chevrettes are quite as fashionable as suede for tailor-made gowns.

For a child of ten, a pretty frock is made of heavy novelty goods. The short gored skirt is pulled to a blouse waist, handsome lace and bows of ribbon forming the garnitures.

Many of the under and sleeping garments are being made of a material akin to flannelette in appearance, but with some wool in it. Unless children are delicate it is not necessary for them to be clothed in so heating a fabric at night, and flannelette hits the happy medium.

Nothing multiplies as much as kind-ess.

The virtue which requires to be ever guarded is hardly worth the time of bothering with it.

It is not wise to seek happiness, while we are not willing to be good.

Some people are frightened at an unusual toilet, thinking that fine cloths make fine manners, and forgetting that any manner to be good must be natural, and that of every day.

Men seldom admire women who talk disagreeably of other women. Neither a woman who is continually falsifying.

Modesty in speech as the same in dress, shows good sense, and girls should be careful not to dress too gay.

The most lasting attachments are lavished on women possessing but a moderate share of personal attractions.

Phele: It is very unlady like of your friend to burst out in a laughter while you were reading, but it was hardly necessary for you to quarrel about it.

Beauty of person has been regarded in every age as an effective weapon to conquer man, hence I do not condemn any girl for making herself as prepos-sessing as possible; but she should avoid paint and powder, as artificial beauty is not admired.

Women could excite an admiration of sentiment composed of esteem, respect and love, if they would only be a little more careful of how they act, what they say and do.

If you are in better circumstances than your plainer sisters, don't act like you know it; if so, it classes you with the "fools of the fooled."

Sweetness of temper always places stamp of a certain kind of real loveliiness on homely women, and makes elderly ones appear youthful.

Girls: Because one person speaks well of you and by chance you hear it through another, don't come to the conclusion that you are the grandest girls in town, and everybody would like to know your names.

Remember it is the woman of high intelligence and sweetness of temper who becomes the theme of admiration and individual attention and the woman of the hour.

Be kind and amiable; cultivate your intellect and be natural, and by so doing you will be the creature that God has ordained you to be.

J. E.: You should not be anxious to marry a man whose family is opposed to you, except he has assured you that he holds you in higher esteem than he does his family.

Don't associate with girls 12 years your junior as such association makes you appear very old looking when together.

It may be natural for some old girls to act shy like young ones, but most people call it pretense.

With but a few exceptions men are alike They all want to be "the head," which women should not object to, providing they can be the neck.

Pretty girls should be on their guard,
as it is said, that their plainer sisters converse more intelligently.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be distroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THE NEWSIEST AND BEST JOURNAL PUBLISHED.

The Washington Bee is no doubt the newsiest and best journal published by a Afro American in this country. The Bee contains more news than any two weeklies published anywhere in the United States.

Here is what our exchanges say:

THE BEE HIVE DUMPED.

[From the American Star.]

Washington newspaper publishers are getting up in the world. Friend Cooper has removed the Colored American's old hat and put on a regular "Dunlap" headgear, while Brother Chase politely dumped the "old hive" and procured a brand new hive with artistic cells, and of course the Bee is humming. Both papers are beautiful. We like to see it, if we can't.

"BETTER LATE THAN NEVER."

[From the Texas Freeman.]

We are just a trifle late in saying so, but the Washington Bee has made mechanical changes that improve its appearance and reflect credit on the management.

[From the Appeal.]

The Washington Bee recently made considerable improvement in its appearance and enlarged its size to a quarto. Since his late little unpleasantness Chase seems to be "stronger than ever."

[From Newspaperdom.]

The Washington (D. C.) Bee has been enlarged and substantially improved. The general tone and character of the Bee sustain the place and name it has made for itself under the editorial management of William Calvin Chase.

[From the Fourth Estate.]

THE BEE BUSIER THAN EVER.

The Washington (D. C.) Bee has been enlarged and substantially improved. It is now an eight-page paper. The general tone and character of the Bee sustain the place and name it has made for itself under the editorial management of William Calvin Chase.

[From the Southern Forge.]

The Washington Bee comes to us this week in great shape. It has a new head and twice the size. Brother Chase is going ahead. And if you bother the Bee you'll get "stinged."

[From the Alexandria Leader.]

The Washington Bee has purchased an entire new outfit. The Bee will be issued as eight-page paper. May success attend the Bee.

[From the Evening Star.]

ENLARGED TO EIGHT PAGES.

The Washington Bee appeared Saturday, enlarged and substantially improved, as an eight-page paper. It also presented many illustrated features, including portraits of Major Moore, Commissioner Ross and other Districtofficials and prominent citizens. The general tone and character of the Bee sustain the place and name it has made for itself under the editorial management of William Calvin Chase.

The leading editorial Saturday pledges support to Gov. McKinley's candidacy for President.

[From the Western Optic.]

The Washington, D. C., Bee is out in a new dress of type and with its improved make-up now ranks with the foremost Negro newspapers in America. May the Bee improve each shining hour.

[From the Athens Clipper.]

The last issue of the Washington Bee presents a very pleasant appearance to the public. It has eight pages abounding in rich reading matter. Editor Chase has lost none of his old time vigor in wielding the pen. The Clipper congratulates the Bee and hopes it and its editor may live many years to sting the enemies of the race.

[From the Baltimore Standard.]

The Washington Bee comes to us this week in an eight-page form, and much improved every way. Editor Chase is to be congratulated.

[From the Chicago A. M. E. Record.]

The Washington Bee came out last week, considerably improved. It is now a six-column quarto, and has the appearance of property stamped upon all of its departments.

THE STING OF THE BEE.

From the Wide Wake.

Here's to you editor Chase on the successful appearance of The Bee. May it continue to sting the wayward HEWING TO THE LINE.

[From the Chicago Republican.]

Brother Chase, of the Bee, is still hewing to the line in Washington. He certainly has the courage of his convictions. A recorder of deeds in Washington cuts no figure with Chase.

CONGRATULATES THE BEE.

WILLIAMSPORT, PA., October 12, 1895.

W. Calvin Chase.

Dear Sir: Inclosed find check for the amount I owe you. I congratulate you upon the improvement of the new issue of your paper. I am glad to see you are aiming aright for the future as you have always done in the past.

With best wishes for your success, I am, yours, respectfully,

Mrs. M. A. HAGAN.

DELEGATE CONTEST.

There seems to be some doubt among the politicians as to who will be the strongest and best man to represent the republican party from this city in the next national convention.

The BEE has printed a list of the gentlemen who have been mentioned as candidates, and as an inducement to make this contest interesting, the BEE will present a fine gold headed cane to the candidate who receives the highest number of coupons. The coupons will be received and counted by the contest editor, and all coupons will be kept and counted in the presence of a committee to consist of one friend from each candidate

Each coupon will count one vote, which must be sent to the contest-editor of the BEE.

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE.

William Kline, Harrisburg, Pa writes: "I have never known anything to sell like your album. Yesterday I took orders enough to pay me over $25." W. J. Elmore, Bangor, Me., writes: "I take an order for your album at almost every house I visit. My profit is often as much as $20 for a single day's work." Wife suffered for two years with chronic Rheumatism and Neuralgia. Tried everything recommended without relief until cured her.

It penetrates muscle and membrane quickly to the very seat of pain and drives it out at once.

REV. R. P. RUMLEY.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., March 23, 1895.

Lyon Manufacturing Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Gentlemen:—My wife has been suffering with chronic rheumatism and neuralgia for two or three years. I had tried everything that any one would recommend, but all failed. At last the Mexican Mustang Liniment was recommended to me by a well-known member of the First Baptist Church of this city, Sye Parham, a coachman, who said that he had pains in the back and used Mustang Liniment and it cured him. I tried it and it has cured my wife.

ANDREW GLEESON.

When Plutarch wrote the lives of eminent men, which are the guiding stars for posterity, it can be said there is no figure in his galaxy of eminent personages that surpass the character that The Bee presents to its readers to-day in the person of the modern O'Connell, Andrew Gleeson. Why is it that Gleeson is the most prominent figure to-day? It is becsuse he is a humanitarian and a lover of his home. Who is Gleeson?

He was born in Ireland, Nov. 29th 1836, in the County of Clare, which elected the great emancipator, O'Connell to Parliament. When a boy of 14 he came to America driving a horse and cart for seven dollars and board per month, working fourteen and sixteen hours a day. In 1852 he was a Douglass Democrat and followed the fortunes of Douglass until he was defeated in the Democratic Convention for Presidency, which met in Charleston, South Carolina in 1860 and adjourned to Baltimore. When the South seceeded, he turned his face toward the Capitol of the Nation declaring his feality to the then threatened Union and when Mr. Lincoln called for volunteers he was one of the first to respond to the call and enlisted the 10th of April 1861. During the three months that he served a soldier he was promoted to sergeant and afterwards made wagonmaster and remained as such until the close of the war. When Grant took command of the Army of the Potomac he was at Gen. Meade's Headquarter's team at Brandywine Station, Va. When peace was declared and the political clans began to gather for political actions, Mr. Gleeson joined the republican party. Today he is known the country over as the friend and admirer of the late James G. Blaine, for whose interest he has led his District hosts through many a hard fought battle. It was in 1868 when he entered politics and when the light of his political horizon was first seen. In 1872 he went to Philadelphia with the Young Men's Republican Club to nominate Gen. Grant, and in 1876 to the National Republican Convention at Cincinnatti flying the colors of the Plumed Knight, whom Ingersoll unmortalized in that convention. The defeat of his great friend did not lessen hisardor and admiration for the man from Maine, for in 1880 we seen him leading the District republicans to Chiccago for the Plumed Knight again to see his fondest hopes decayin the nomination of James A. Garfield.

Mr. Gleeson then gave his attention to his private business and was interrupted no more until 1884, when like a magic he leaped into another great political combat, in which such men as A. M. Clapp, B. H. Warner, Fred. Douglass, Gen. Whitaker and many lesser lights battled for the control of the delegation to the National Republican Convention. Mr. Gleeson with his Tidus Achates, Col. Perry H. Carson entered the contest. The fight was a hard one and was thought by many that it would be a draw. The various leaders contended long for the mast ery of theconvention at the all night proceedings of the District Convention, the opponents of Gleeson and Carson were training their forces and when the convention was called to order the next morning, All parties were on hand and ready for the fray. Gleeson and Carson entered the ring, the battle began, and the political referee awarded the prize to Mr. Gleeson and Carson. Again he went to the National Convention at Chicago. where in that year Mr. Blaine was nominated. From the time of his nomination until the day of the election Mr. Gleeson worked earnestly for the republican party, contributing large sums of money for the conducting of the campaign, and traveling from place to place, giving advice and urging his Irish friends throughout the country to support Blaine. During this campaign in New York, and while at the Fifth Avenue Hotel Mr. Blaine, in the presence of Mrs. Blaine and few personal friends presented him a glass cane as a token of admiration for his loyalty and which was presented to Mr. Blaine by the glass-blowers and working men of Evansville, Indiana.

can National Convention, and in 1892

In 1888 he again went to the Republihe lead the District delegation to the Minneapolis Convention. His loyalty to his old chief is too well-known for further mention, but it can be truth fully said that he went down with colors flying for Mr. Blaine. He now champions the cause of Thomas B. Reed, and he is a protectionist of strong convictions, and there is two things that Mr. Gleeson will never abandon, his religion and his ideas of protection to American industries, and is a contractor and a strong business man and one of nature's noblemen. Washington has had men of brilliant minds to represent her interests, the negro has had men who claim to be his friend and who painted in the clouds in letters of sparkling gems the defender and protector of the interest of humanity, but when the pages of history is turned leaf by leaf, the conclusion of the closing chapter and the last pages will be, this is the "noblest Roman of them all."

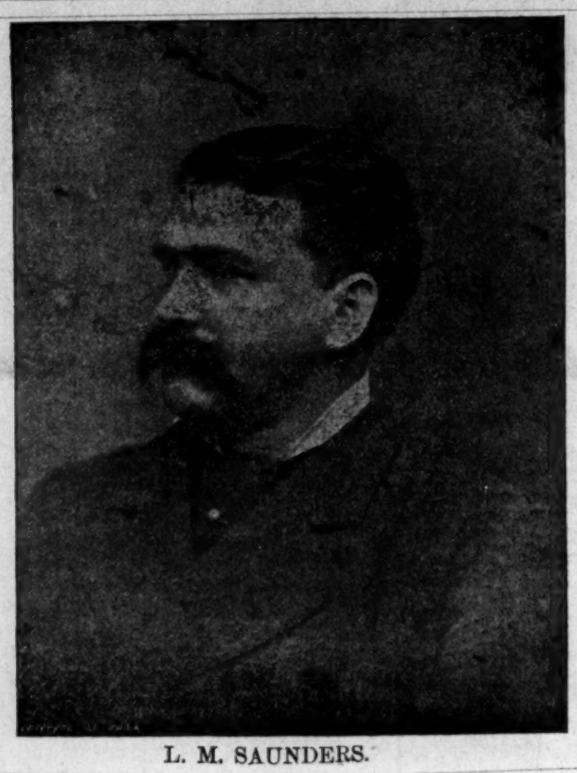
A missing link and no doubt a broken chain would be perceptable if The Bee failed in concluding its review of one of the noblest men, of his time, to speak of one of the most interesting personages of his household.

Mr. Gleeson is fortunate enough in possessing a daughter of rare accomplishments in the person of Miss Ella B. Gleeson. She is a great student, a lover of the classics and with wonderful tact and executive ability combines all that is sweet, gracious and womanly. She receives all her distinguished father's callers, and cares for all of her father's personal correspondence, private and political. One would judge her a poitician. Her interest in politics is only in behalf of her father's ambition and is not an advocate of woman's suffrage, but believes the greatest charm of women is in the sanctity of Home. As she ably expresses it. "A woman's noblest station is re treat."

For the very best of reasons, quality, variety and price, this is the best place in washington for you to buy clothes, Hats, shoes and Furnishings for yourself and your boys.

SAK'S AND COMPANY,

PA. AVENUE & SEVENTH ST. (SAK'S CORNER.)



L. M. SAUNDERS.

Mr. L. M. Saunders was born in western New York and for several years resided in the counties of Catteraugue and Chautauque. He was educated in the common school; followed farming for a living until 18 years old, then taught school for about three years, then came to Washington where he has resided for the last 30 years.

He first entered the Civil Service of the Government in the War Department. Was for 4 years in the Treasury Department. It was then that he studied law. He commenced the practice of law in 1870, and continued in the practice until 1881, when he opened a real estate office and actively engaged in that business until 1890, when he aided in the opening of the Ohio National Bank of this city. He was prominent in its management from the first and was soon elected vice-president and acting president—the president of the bank being a non-resident. He was in actual control for about three years. He tendered his resignation as vice-president and director in the month of March, last, since which time he has conducted his own business.

His father was an English yankee and belonged to the Abolitionist party before the war and was engaged in this to the advantage of the slave; he believed slavery to be a vice and crime and never failed to pray for the liberation of the slave. He belonged to and constituted a part of what is known as the Underground Railroad of those troublesome days before the war. A colored man fleeing from slavery that he aided in his flight from bondage to a home of freedom in a free land.

The first colored face he ever saw was in his father's house amidst the rugged hills of Calla County, N. Y. He had come in the night and when he came down stairs in the morning he was there and after being rested and assisted for a day or two was helped on his way to the next station and so on and on until he reached a land where the slave catcher could not follow him.

It was under these circumstances that he at a very early age received sympathetic impressions for the black man that has never been erased from his mind. He has for the last ten years given employment to many of them in different ways in his office as clerks, in the field as agents and in every line of mechanical employment known to the trades. He is an advocate of their rights to be so employed, and would, if he could, give more of them employment on the police force of the city, in the fire department of our local government.

The way to elevate a man or a race is to put responsibilities upon them.

He has denied that he ever refused a colored man or Afro-American a room in his office. When he had his place of business in the place where Mertz's drug store is now, he had colored tenants—Rev. W. H. Scott had his book store in the basement of his building, and other colored men had offices in his main building.

Pointers.

DR. JOHN R. FRANCIS.

Some men are born great, others have greatness thrust upon them, but there are few who merit or achieve greatness.

Men, as well as women, are known in life by what they can do and what they have done.

He is a benefactor who can benefit humanity and he who does good deeds shall be interred with their bones. The physician is the most important adjunct to the human family; he does more to improve the human family than any other class of citizens.

Antiquity can boast of men learned in medicine; all races have their men and women skilled in the medical profession, but modern science of medicine has never been equalled. It is the skilled physician of whom THE BEE speaks to-day, and the man who stands head and front of the science of medicine, Dr. John R. Francis, a native of this city, who was born in the District of Columbia March 3, 1856, of excellent parantage. He received a common school education in the public schools of this city and then graduated from the Academic Department of Wesleyan University, Wilberham, Mass., after which he graduated in medicine from Ann Harbor University, Mich., in 1878, and has the largest practice of any Afro-American physician in this city and equal to any Anglo-Saxon. He was appointed one of the trustees of the public schools to succeed Mr. John H. Brooks, and did a great deal to improve the High School which has degenerated since his retirement.

It was Dr. Francis who had the number of admissions to the Normal School increased to 40, which the people see the great need to-day.

He was also the first trustee to establish grade meetings in the colored schools which do not exist to-day.

He resigned from the trusteeship of the public schools on account of his increased practice.

He was appointed assistant Surgeon in charge of the Freedmen's Hospital and acted as cheif almost a year during the absence of Dr. D. H. Williams, at this time he recommended in his annual report, to the Secretary of the Interior, a Training School for nurses, although started by the Medical department of Howard University, but he was the first physician to put it into active operation at the Hospital.

The first trained nurse he appointed in the male ward was Mrs. Annie Jonnson and Miss Lucy Ashton was the second. One of the most important features of the trained nurse system is the art of cooking and arranging diet for the sick.

On the eve of Dr. Williams taking charge of the Hospital some months after his appointment Dr. Francis had completed his plans for the establishment of school cooking in connection with the training department. Active preparations were going on for the fitting out of diet kitchens in the several wards of the hospital, but this important work, unfortunately was stopped on the arrival of Dr. Williams.

It is understood it is now about to be resumed.

Dr. Francis never was an applicant for the Hospital and when the first assistant surgeon in charge was tendered him by Secretary Hoke Smith, it was through the persuasion of his friends that he accepted.

Dr. Francis is no politician and had it not have been for the personal fight that Secretary Gresham made for Dr. Williams, Dr. Francis would have been appointed chief of the Hospital.

THE SANITARIUM

is the name of the best and most equipped private hospitals in this country by white or black. This Sanitarium is situated at 2112 Penna Ave., N.W. An exact cut of it is in this issue of the BEE.

The advantages offered by such institutions is conspicuously great in maternity and gynaecological cases. Here, the unfortunate and friendless mother can, for a small consideration, receive the latest scientific treatment at the hands of a skilled obstetrician and careful, faithful and tender nurses, protected from the gaze of criticism of the public during her maternity.

Dr. Francis has completed his arrangements for the opening of such an institution. After a period of 18 years practice and careful observation, he has become convince of the fact that an institution, where citizens regardless of color, can receive treatment is a necessity in any community. This is especially the case in Washington.

As far as we know, this is the first hospital of its kind opened by a colored physician in the country.

THE NEGRO SPORT.

WHAT HE HAS ACCOMPLISHED IN THE REALM OF ATHLETIC ACTIVITY, ETC.

The modern newspaper that claims to cater to the variegated tastes of its readers, and is ever mindful of what pleases the general public in a journalistic line devote in very many instances a whole page of their paper to sport exclusively, and have an editor of that particular line of work, who is a very great personage, and who is indeed an indispensable acquisition.

Through these agencies the man or set of men who achieve greatness, on the cinder path, in the field, on the diamond, or in the magic circle, receive their meed of praise or are praised beyond the just merit of their performance, or their brilliant performances receive but scant credit according to the color of their skin, or their personal standing with the autocrat of the sporting department. It is unfortunate, and a sad commentary upon our boasted love of fair play that no colored man, no matter what his accomplishments, can hope to gain even his just dues from the average writer of sporting information of to-day.

It is not the purpose of this article to accord to our brother in black all that is due him for the gallant manner in which he has fought his way to the front in spite of almost insurmountable obstacles that had confront him, and against which he has had to contest every inch of the ground; but we shall endeavor in our weak way to mention in the space alloted some of his most notable performances, and most glorious achievements.

THE TURF.

The colored man has not enjoyed for any great length of time the privilege of the betting ring at the race track; he has, until recent years, occupied the most menial and subordinate positions, except in rare instances, when his unusual ability enabled him to "sport silk."

Now that he is enabled by his own improved condition, and a marked change in public sentiment to face the bookies on even terms, and wage financial warfare with them under equal conditions, he has shown himself in numerous instances to be as good a judge of form as his more experienced and wealthier compeers.

He has shown also that when he is convinced that he is right he will wager his money with that reckless abandon that would do credit to Riley Grannan or Pittsburg Phil.

In 1890 there was formed what was called the Colored Combine, an organization which in order to achieve better results, pooled their money and their racing interests.

It was composed of such well known turfites as Albert Cooper, Chas. Jordan, Chauncey Jacobs, Pate Clay, John Carter, Wm. H. Smith, Andrew Thompson and others.

They had, I believe, a string of three horses of which Frontenac was the best and most consistent performer.

Their plan was to get their horse in superb fettle, keyed up to a pitch by quiet methods and without ostentation, working when others were asleep in order to keep the true condition of their charge from the talent and public alike, and when the bugle called the horses to the post everyone was in the dark as to the true condition of the Combine's entry.

The odds under those circumstances were usually good and their representative used to go down the "line" and bet their money like it was all over but the "cashing."

It is said that in one of these coups they took $85,000 out of the ring at Westchester and their total winnings for the season footed up a quarter of a million dollars.

All must admit that this is quite a showing for people not yet out of their racing teens.

There are several men moreover who have earned a competency on the turf and are living on the sunny side of easy street.

Billy Walker, the once famous jockey, probably the best of his time, is now living in Louisville, Ky. He owns and operates a racing stable and has money to burn. Among the race followers of the Blue Grass State no man is respected more, or their work taken more readily than Billy's.

Isaac Murphy, unquestionably the greatest jockey America has produced, made hay while the sun shone, and unless he goes into Wall Street dealing in futures, will never have the wolf prowling around his door.

Albert Cooper, the greatest trainer of the race, has by good judgment and keen foresight, and a natural talent for the business in which he is engaged placed himself beyond the point of ever having to ask his friends for financial aid.

Chauncey Jacobs, the debonair and polished sport from the Hub, is now the proprietor of a hotel in that city, where he entertains his guests with a suavity of manner and an elegance of bearing so characteristic of the man. Chauncey as mine host preeminently successful, but the sporting blood that courses through his veins makes him a constant visitor at all the big race meetings.

NEGRO AT THE ATLANTA EXPOSITION.

NEGRO VISITORS.—WHAT THEY SAID AND HOW THEY WERE TREATED, ETC., ETC.

EDITOR: A great many negroes who came appear to be very much disappointed and chagrined because the reported ill-treatment of those of us who visited Atlanta during the latter part of the Exposition, did not materialize. From the accounts I had received from various sources, but mainly from those who had steadily opposed the negro exhibit from the start, I left Washington a little apprehensive of trouble. I had heard of a colored lady being slapped off a seat in a street car accidentally sitting upon the hem of a white gentleman's garment. I had been told that at almost every turn inside and outside of the Exposition grounds obtrusive signs, viz: "Negroes and dogs not allowed in here," were to be seen. I was informed that in the auditorium at the grounds a division was made in the seating of blacks and whites, and that colored persons were not allowed in the same waiting rooms at the union depot in Atlanta with the whites. I found that a berth could not be secured in a Pullman sleeper on the return trip from Atlanta. Now I have enumerated all of these objectionable features simply to say that if they existed at any time, it was prior to our going to Atlanta. Those with whom I made the journey were as sensitive to any invidious or restrictions on account of color as we left behind. We were on the road day and night during our week's stay in Atlanta, and as a matter of fact, in the street cars and in the stores were we treated with more courtesy than even in Washington. They may have appeared in their Sunday clothes, and tried to behave their best, and now that the Exposition is at an end, relapse into their former condition; but it is my firm conviction that the change was brought about by so many refined and cultivated colored men and women coming in that city during the last month of the Exposition in attendance upon the various Negro Congresses. There is no doubt in my mind that the Tuesday's session of the Women's Congress, presided over so ably by Mrs. Thurman, of Jackson, Michigan, did much to do in innfluencing the sentiment change of sentiment everywhere among the white people. The Atlanta Constitution devoted a column daily to the proceedings of that Congress, composed as it was of so many of the ablest women of the race. They met, organized and conducted their business and addressed with the system and precision of veterans in legislation and parliamentary wrangles, although some animated discussion but all in the most courteous and parliamentary manner. The several papers on various subjects affecting the advancement of our people showed great depth of thought and reasonable ability, and were favorably commented upon.

The exhibit at the Negro Building was something for every Negro who saw it, to be proud of, and will no doubt be an incentive for greater efforts in the future. I noticed that large numbers of whites visited the Negro building and appeared to be favorably impressed. A Boston firm purchased the entire exhibit of jarred fruits and other luxuries, put up by a lady of Atlanta.

Miss Lucy E. Moten, Principal of the Normal School, was a conspicuous figure in the Women's Congress and before several institutions of learning and about Atlanta for the instruction of colored youth. She went to Atlanta with our party, armed with the strongest kind of endorsement from the United States Commissioner of Education, Prof. J. W. E. Bowen of the Gammon Theological Institute, secured an audience for Miss Moten with Governor and the State Commissioner of Education of Georgia, at the State House. I was an invited guest on that occasion and accompanied the party.

Both the Governor and Commissioner Glenn were very gracious in their demeanor towards us, and after the exchange of congratulations upon the good work going on in the schools and colleges of Atlanta and the expressed good wishes of the Governor for better feeling between the races, we departed, amply supplied with public documents, the Governor's message upon lynching, and a steel engraving of himself to each of us. Governor Atkinson certainly impressed us with his earnest desire for the advancement of our people upon all lines.

During our stay in Atlanta we were delightfully entertained by several of the leading colored families of the city. Georgia is notable for her handsome women. Added to their beauty is intelligence. It could not be otherwise with five large educational institutions for their use surrounding the city of Atlanta, besides the public school advantages. On the front of their street cars you can see signs in large letters "Atlanta University," "Clark University," both colored institutions. We have not reached that point here yet when any of our roads will advertise the way to any of our Universities.

All things considered, our people made no mistake in going to Atlanta. Their going and their exhibit was an object lesson to the South, and to those people of the North who know so little of the Negro from contact. A large gathering of well dressed, intelligent and well behaved colored people, cannot but make a favorable impression among those who know us as menials in rags and ignorance. This favorable impression was noticeable to a remarkable degree in the manner of our treatment in public conveyances and in the shops of Atlanta. I entered a car with three ladies and three white typical "Georgia Crackers" gave up their seats anvd invited these ladies to sit down. I went with Miss Moten to a shoe store for over-shoes, and though many white persons were standing about to ba waited upon, she was immediately waited upon and assisted in fitting her shoes—something that some of our F street dealers refuse to do. Now I claim that our going to Georgia in such numbers, with head acting and talking like free men and women had much to do with our respectful treatment. Staying away would have accomplished nothing. Our existence and qualities would have been unknown. As it was, it was a revelation even to such men as Gov. Atkinson and State Commissioner Glenn, of Georgia, who looked upon Miss Lucy Moten with amazement at her masterly conversational powers and knowledge of educational work. Her argument for the education of the head first, and the hand subordinate thereto was most convincing, and elicited favorable applause at the Women's Congress and at the Spellman Seminary.

At Gammon Theological Institute, we were entertained at dinner by Prof. J. W. E. Bowen at his palatial residence upon the grounds. By the way, Gammon is richly endowed, and substantially equipped.

Passing through that part of the State of North Carolina through which the Seaboard Air Line runs, dilapidated villages made up of windowless log huts and unpainted board houses were all that could be seen of civilization. Marketless cotton-bales filled the platforms at all the stations, while greasy looking white men lounged about, and smiling ragged negroes moved around the cotton-bales in the rays of the sun to keep warm. About the largest brick structure we observed while passing through North Carolina was the State Penitentiary at Raleigh, with its broad-rimmed hatted guards stalking to and fro with heavy musket over their shoulders. This seemed to be the only thrifty institution in the city of Raleigh. At all of the stations in North Carolina, there are two waiting rooms labeled respectively "Waiting Room for Colored People" and "Waiting Room for White People." This part of the South is far behind all other sections through which we passed.

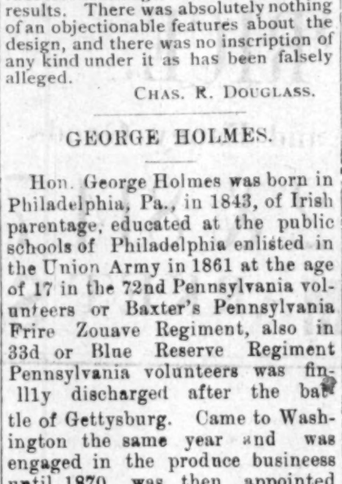
Prof. Booker T. Washington and his accomplished and charming wife gave us a pressing invitation to visit Tuskegee, but the time given was too short, and we reluctantly gave up the trip to Atlanta; besides we had no taste for the "Jim Crow Car" that runs South from Atlanta. This car is getting to be very unpopular with both races, and an effort is about to be made to abolish it. The railroad company does not like the additional expense that it incurs.

In writing of this trip to Atlanta I have endeavored to paint the picture just as I saw it, and not as I have had it pictured to me, for I saw some evidences of gross misrepresentations, the result of malice or ignorance, or both. This was the case regarding the Negro Building. The cast was designed by Prof. Bowen and was intended to represent the progress of the race from bondage to freedom, and the results. There was absolutely nothing of an objectionable features about the design, and there was no inscription of any kind under it as has been falsely alleged.

CHAS. R. DOUGLASS.

GEORGE HOLMES.

Hon. George Holmes was born in Philadelphia, Pa., in 1843, of Irish parentage, educated at the public schools of Philadelphia enlisted in the Union Army in 1861 at the age of 17 in the 72nd Pennsylvania volunteers or Baxter's Pennsylvania Frire Zouave Regiment, also in 33d or Blue Reserve Regiment Pennsylvania volunteers was finally discharged after the battle of Gettysburg. Came to Washington the same year and was engaged in the produce business until 1870, was then appointed Chief Engineer of the City Fire Department, and served as such until the change of Government. Afterwards was in the store and hotel business and in 1885 purchased a large tract of land and what is now Landover, Prince George County, Md., and made that point his residence the next year, and have been engaged in farming and later in merchantile business there and in building up a prosperous and thrifty place which promises to be an important suburb of the Capitol. He is a Post Commander of John A. Rawlins, Post No. 1, Department of Potomac, which is the oldest G. A. R. Post in the order. Was Chairman of District of Columbia Central Committee and also



Secretary of the same He ran for the office to which he was recently elected once before, the whole ticket was beaten, but was subsequently elected by a vote 109 majority over the highest man on the democratic ticket. He is one of the best known republicans in this city and his election to the Maryland Legislature demonstrates his push and staying qualities.

He never brakes a promise and whatever he tells you it can be depended on.

He was for a number of years a conspicious figure in District politics and one of the few men who has always aided colored republicans.

He is a great admirer of Gleason.

JOSEPH H. LOUGLASS.

HE IS A GENIUS ON THE VIOLIN.

(Chicago Times Herald.)

The more striking elements in the character of the late Frederick Douglass and the achievements in his career as a public man have rather obscured from public view the smaller virtures and domestic grace of his nature.

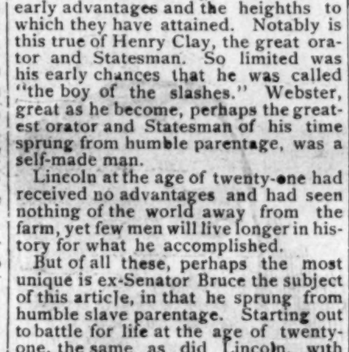
How strong and loyal were his loves for his family, and those who enjoyed his confidence can only be appreciated by those who were blest by them.

In nothing was all this more interestingly shown than in his rather chivalric companionship with his grandson Joseph Douglass. "Joe," as Mr. Douglass fondly called him is the son of Mr. Chas. R. Douglass. He is scarcely yet of age and is a young man of pleasing eisposition and gentlemanly habits. He has a phenomenal gift for music, being able to play more than, cceptraly kinds of musical instruments, His mastery, howeveis wiht the violin.

He has had the evry best of instruction, and his playing evidences a power akin to genius. This mastery of the violin appealed with peculiar force to his illustrious grandson.

When Mr. Douglnss discovered that his grandson Joseph, began to manifest a taste and anaptitude for his favorite instrument, his interest was aroused to the point of enthusiasm. He took a personal interest in Joseph's proper instruction and training.

During his last visit to Europe Mr. Douglass made a special visit to every place in any way noted for the manufacture of the best violins.



JOSEPH H. DOUGLASS.

He was determined to encourage his grandson by the gift of an instrument that should bear the stamp of highest superiority. How well this interest was repaid by Joseph's remarkable proficiency is well-known to all who have listened to his captivating rendition of nearly everything within the range of the classics in music. Mr. Douglass' rapt delight in Joe's playing was in itself sufficient proof of its excellence.

How often have I seen this great strong man fairly quiver with enthusiasm and the tears gather in his great, lustrous eyes as he would listen to the bewitching strains from Joe's powerful bow. The one inspired the other, and the underplay of mutual sympathies between them was a picture that one could not forget.

Some years after Mr. Douglass had purchased the violin in Europe he became interested in a celebrated violin exhibited in Washington, Joe tested its tone resources and felt that he had discovered a new world of possibilities in the violin though the price was several hundred dollars, the fact that Joe was pleased with it was sufficient reason for its purchase and presentation to his grandson. During his six months residing in Chicago, he and Joe were always on the lookout for something new and interesting in the line of violins. In this quest they were inseparable, and to those who knew of their delightful companionship the thought of a violin was always suggested by their presence.

Joseph Douglass is at present taking a preparatory course under Prof. Joseph Hasper of this city, which will enable him to enter the graduating class in the Conservatory of Music in Brussels, Belgium.

EX-SENATOR B. K. BRUCE.

A UNIQUE CHARACTER.

Perhaps the one thing in the history of this country that stands out most prominent is the uniqueness of her public men; their low origin and lack of early advantages and the heighths to which they have attained. Notably is this true of Henry Clay, the great orator and Statesman. So limited was his early chances that he was called "the boy of the slashes." Webster, great as he become, perhaps the greatest orator and Statesman of his time sprung from humble parentage, was a self-made man.

Lincoln at the age of twenty-one had received no advantages and had seen nothing of the world away from the farm, yet few men will live longer in history for what he accomplished.

But of all these, perhaps the most unique is ex-Senator Bruce the subject of this article, in that he sprung from humble slave parentage. Starting out to battle for life at the age of twenty-one, the same as did Lincoln, with scarcely any training, but possessed of a wonderful will power he has attained to heights that fall to few men.

Self-taught, self-educated, in short a self-made man, yet differing from most self-made men, who are usually one sided, in that he is an all sounded man, as fully at home in the business as in the political world.

Having been honored with the highest honors that his State could bestow—Senator of the United States—where as a member the of greatest body in the world, he many times presided over its deliberations, with dignity and credit to himself and his race. As Register of the Treasury, in all of the many positions of honor and trust committed to him, he has distinguished himself.

For sound judgment, far sightedness, coupled with good practical common sense he never makes a mistake, hence he can always be relied upon as a safe man to follow.

Few public men have made a record that will bear so close scrutiny, yet with all these honors he is the same modest, unassuming gentleman that he was before ladened with honors such as come to few men.

his management of the Freedmen Hospital. A recent visit to that institution revealed the grounds for this high testimonial.

Those who are familiar with the workings of Freedman's Hospital will appreciate the work that is being done to make it first-class in every respect and thoroughly up to date in its methods.

As a surgeon, Dr. Williams takes rank with the foremost operators in the profession, and an inspection of the operating room and the surgical ward, shows that only the most approved surgical methods and appliances are in use now at Freedman's Hospital.

The training school at this hospital means more than its mere passing mention would seem to indicate. There has been a steadily increasing demand here and elsewhere for trained nurses. The opportunities for obtaining the necessary training, furnished by the Freedmen's Hospital School for training nurses, has proven a great boom to the colored people of the country who appreciate the fact that Dr. Williams has thus opened up for our young women a new avenue of employment. This institution is fortunate in securing the services of so valuable a person for Superintendent as Miss Sarah C. Ebersole has proven herself to be. Dr. E. Oliver Belt, Washington's prominent oculist says, "the training school was a success from its inception, and the usefulness to the hospital and its good to the colored race cannot be over-estimated."

With no additional appropriation the hospital has been reorganized. It is divided into departments and an Attending and a Consulting staff appointed from among Washington's best physicians. Under the direction of this staff the hospital work is performed by a corps of internes who are selected from the young graduates of the Medical Colleges throughout the country.

The Freedmen's Hospital ambulance, designed by Dr. Williams and built under his supervision, is the pride of the community. The ambulance service of Freedman's Hospital supplies a long felt want and that it fills it in every respect is evidenced by the universal commendation this branch of hospital work has received.

Freedman's Hospital occupies a new place now among hospitals.

It has opened the way to a new field for colored physicians. It has provided a wider field of opportunity for our young women. All this has been done by adopting and practicing the theories and methods of the best modern, scientific thought in the profession.

A visit to the Freedmen's Hospital and an inspection of its wards and workings will soon convince one of the reason that Secretary Smith's words of commendation, which have attracted such wide attention, have been well earned.

JAMES O. HOLMES.

There is no young man in this city who is more popular than Mr. James O. Holmes and there are but a few, if any of his age, who has made the progress in business that he has. By industry and perseverance he can be regarded as being one of the foremost in this community.

He was born in King William County, Virginia, November 18, 1857, and came to this city in May, 1859, when he was but two years old.

He was reared by his grandmother, an eminent lady's physician, very well known in this city.

He has been in business for 17 years and he is reputed to be worth sixty thousand dollars.

He has a wife and two very interesting children, who enjoy a happy home.

He went to the school that was conducted and taught by Mr. George F. T. Cook, the present superintendent of the public schools, and also Miss Lavina Lane, of Alexandria. Va.

One of the most commanding house in the southwest is the Holmes' Hotel at 333 Va. ave., s. w,

He was an apt boy at school and quite a favorite with the teachers on account of his bright and keen intellect.

He was given with the faculty of knowing how to save his money.

He is also a good judge of human nature and is very seldom disappointed in his opinion of men.

He is respected by the largest business firms in this city and whose credit is above par with them.

His is the second colored hotel in this city and no doubt the largest owned by any Afro-American.

He is as liberal as he is generous, unostentatious, but business in every respect.

He belongs to several lodges and stands high in the masonic order.

In presenting the portrait of Mr. Holmes in the souvenir edition of The BEE, we do so because he deserves it and to show what a young man can do in business, if he will.

COL. W. B. WEBB.

William B. Webb was born in the city of Washington September 17th 1825, and received his early education at the private schools of that day. In 1840 he entered Columbia College, now Columbian University and graduated in 1844. He studied law and was admitted to the bar of the District of Columbia in 1847. In 1861, at the breaking out ot the rebellion Mr. Webb was elected Captain of a volunteer company and offered the services of himself and his company to the Government, but there being no organization of troops, at the time to which his copmany could be assigned, his offer was refused. In the fall of 1861 Congress passed a law enacting for the District of Columbia the present Metropolitan Police system. The President, Abraham Lincoln selected for the first Board of Metropolitan Police, gentlemen of high position and tried loyalty and Mr. Webb was chosen by them the first Superintendent. The system of police organized at that time is still in full force and is recognized as the best system possible for the comfort and welfare of the District, while Mr. Webb held the office of Superintendent, slavery existed in the District of Columbia, and one of its laws made all colored men subject to arrest, found in the streets or highways after night, unless protected by a permit from some white man which authorized him to be at large. For the convenience of the colored men Mr. Webb established a system of registered passes, which were issued to colored men, giving them the privilege of being at large for period mentioned therein, and reissued them from time to time. Some of our citizens would be surprised, if that old registry could be use to find that many of our w citizens, did not dare in old days to venture out a unless protected by one of th erintendent's passes. In 186 Webb resigned the position of S tendent of Police, and was turbed in the quiet of his priva until 1885, when President Cle appointed him the Republican missioner of the District. Mr. career as Commissioner is of so date that no comment is needed it. He was assigned to the cha the Public Schools and gave the devoted attention. It is his boa he introduced the system of Training in the schools, which s day has increased until it has b a most valuable and important the educational system of the c nity. It now embraces all schools, and from its simple beg under Mr. Webb has becom parent of the Cooking Schools, Schools, Business schools an schools of a special character. Webb took especial interest colored schools of the District, ting themf requently and mani his interests in variousways.

When his term of office ceased President re-nominated Mr. Web the office of Commissioner of the trict, but notwithstanding a fav report from the Committee of th trict of Columbia of the Senat nomination was not acted upo 1867, Mr. Webb prepared a dig the ordinances of the Corpora the city of Washington, which recognized as authority on all loca ters. He has filled several office local character during his life, s which he continues to hold.
